AARON CHANG

An associate attorney at Constangy, Brooks, Smith & Prophete, LLP, a national labor and employment law firm with 200 attorneys in 15 states. Aaron is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the Villanova University School of Law. His practice involves representing and advising employers in a range of labor and employment issues including workplace safety, discrimination and harassment claims, union organizing campaigns, wage and hour claims, and workplace policy formation and implementation.

Aaron's prior experience as in-house counsel at a global Korean food manufacturing company allows him to bring a unique perspective to employers he represents. While working in-house, he worked side by side with management on a daily basis to solve a wide range of issues. Knowing first-hand the pressures that business leaders face when weighing the risks and costs of their decisions allows Aaron to tailor his practice to best maximize returns for his clients. Aaron is also cognizant of the cultural issues that foreign companies face when operating in the United States, under U.S. law, and is able to assist companies in navigating those issues.
